PREFACE

THE Editor is deeply indebted to three friends for the help they have given him, which has made possible the editing of this Visitation. First, to the late reverend Augustus Jessopp, D.D., rector of Scarning in Norfolk, who obtained for him the loan of Mr. Joseph Foster's copy of the Visitation. Next, to Mr. W. Harry Rylands, F.S.A., the well-known editor of so many heraldic and genealogical volumes for the Harleian Society, for the introduction. And last, but not least, to Canon Foster, F.S.A., the secretary of the LINCOLN RECORD SOCIETY, who kindly undertook the compiling of the index, a work in which he has received much assistance from Miss F. E. Thurlby.

INTRODUCTION

SOME years ago (1874) three printed leaves, each containing two columns of names of the Lincolnshire gentry appeared as an announcement of a book about to be issued under the joint editorship of Canon Maddison and Joseph Foster. The list contains about 690 names, but unfortunately the proposed book never passed beyond a prospectus.

Canon Maddison had a large collection of Lincolnshire pedigrees, and many of them appear in the four volumes of Lincolnshire Pedigrees issued by the Harleian Society. Joseph Foster also had probably already made copies of some of the manuscripts in Heralds' College, the British Museum, and elsewhere.

A copy of the Visitation of Lincolnshire made in 1666 by Sir Edward Bysshe, Clarenceux King of Arms, marked 'D. 23' in the Heralds' College Library, was made for William John sixth Baron Monson and his brother-in-law, A. S. Larken (Portcullis Pursuivant 1878, Richmond Herald 1882), who were both preparing collections for a history of the county. Another copy was made by Joseph Foster, with the permission of the late Garter King of Arms, Sir Albert W. Woods, and it is from this copy that the present volume has been printed.

Bysshe's Visitations are never very full of information. Having, as has been said, but little interest in genealogy, he kept pretty generally to the rule of recording four generations in the direct line. He was and has been the subject of much obloquy, more or less justly; but, if the statement in the life of him given in the Dictionary of National Biography is to be relied on, we have to thank him for one very good action which may well outweigh many of the opposite kind. When he intruded into the office of Garter King of Arms, he is said to have saved the manuscripts and books in the library of Heralds' College from destruction.

Whatever may be said of it, the Visitation now printed has the great advantage of being complete, and without any additions of an unknown later date or dates, such as often occur in the many transcripts now extant. It will therefore be welcomed as a good addition to our knowledge of the Visitations of Lincolnshire.

It may be well to repeat here, with some notes, a list of the Visitations of the county made in various years by the Heralds.

INTRODUCTION

The following notes by the late Dr. G. W. Marshall, York Herald, were printed in the Genealogist, and entitled Notes on the Heralds' Visitations. They commenced in the new series, vol. i, p. 201, and were continued in succeeding volumes.

LINCOLNSHIRE.

There are four Visitations of this county, of which the two first have been printed in the Genealogist, and also separately,¹ under the editorship of Mr. Walter C. Metcalfe, F.S.A., with these titles :—

“The Visitation of the County of Lincoln. In 1562-4. Edited by Walter C. Metcalfe, F.S.A.” London, 1881. 8°, pp. iv, and 154.

“The Visitation of the County of Lincoln, 1592. Edited by Walter C. Metcalfe, F.S.A.” London, 1882. 8°, pp. iv and 84.

The third Visitation was taken in 1634,² and will be found in the College of Arms, MS. c. 23 ; the last is that of 1666, College of Arms MS. D. 23. No copies of these exist elsewhere.

Gutch (Collectanea Curiosa, ii, 233) says that a Visitation was begun in 1681 by Thomas May, Chesler, and Gregory King, Rouge-dragon, for Sir Henry St. George, Clarenceux, and finished in 1683 by Henry Dethick, Richmond, and the said [Gregory] King. Noble adds “probably in the Earl of Egmont’s possession.” I can find no trace of this Visitation, and believe both statements to be without foundation.³

Since this was written by Dr. Marshall, four volumes of Lincolnshire Pedigrees have been printed by the Harleian Society (volumes I, Ij, Iij and Iv) from the manuscript collections of Mr. A. S. Larken, Richmond Herald, who died in 1889. They were edited by the late Canon A. R. Maddison, and his difficulties are fully explained in his introduction to the volumes. These pedigrees contain much that is found in the various Visitations of the county.

The existence of one of the Visitations having thus been doubted, it will be well to examine the evidence relating to the whole series of Visitations of which that of Lincolnshire was one.

All the Visitations now bearing the press-mark ‘K,’ except that of Leicestershire—K. 2, and including that of Lincolnshire made in the years 1681-3, are mentioned in an article printed by Gutch in the Collectanea Curiosa (vol. ii, p. 210, etc.) from a manuscript composed by John Anstis, Garter.

² Thirty-nine pedigrees from the Visitation of 1634, with notes from wills and parish registers, etc., were privately printed by the late Mr. A. Gibbons, F.S.A., in 1898. Evidently he intended to continue this publication, but his illness and death prevented more than a portion of it being printed.—W.H.R.

³ Genealogist, new series, ii, p. 263.—W.H.R.

John Anstis was Norfolk Herald, and succeeded Sir Henry St. George as Garter. He was created Garter in 1718. His patent, securing the office to himself and his eldest son and the survivor of them, is dated 1727, and he held the office until his death in 1745.

It is quite clear, therefore, that Anstis knew of these Visitations made by St. George, though in the list just mentioned he gives no press-marks as is the case with the other Visitations entered; and they are not like the others stated to be 'In Offic. Armor.' Had he not known of them, it seems hardly likely that he would have entered them in his catalogue, although he makes no statement about where they were then preserved. Lincolnshire 1681-1683, is described in exactly the same form as the others.

Noble, in his History of the College of Arms, gives a list of the Visitations, and under Cambridgeshire (appendix, p. xxxiii), is the following note:

1684, St. George, Clarenceux— * * * * * These visitations of the St. George family were chiefly disposed of by the sons-in-law of Sir Henry St. George, Garter, to the Earl of Egmont, and are now possessed by the nobleman of that title, as has been elsewhere observed.

The fate of these manuscripts is more clearly detailed on p. 353 by Noble in his memoir of Sir Henry St. George, Garter:

Dying at his apartments in the College, on August 12, or 15, 1715, in the ninety-first year of his age, he was buried the 18th following, in the chancel of St. Benet's church, Paul's Wharf; but there is no memorial of him, nor of any of the other heralds, except of Hare, Richmond, in the cemetery, and of King, Lancaster, and Brooke, Somerset, within the church, which is singular. Elizabeth, his lady, died at the College, and was carried from thence, November 8, 1704, and buried the same day, at Woodford in Essex. By her Garter left two daughters and co-heirs, married to . . . Wynne, of Little Chelsea, Esq., Serjeant at Law, and to . . . Gregory, of Woolthorp in Herefordshire, Esq. Mr. Bridges, of Herefordshire, his executor, obtaining possession of the heraldic books which Garter had in his house, never returned them to the College: they were very numerous and valuable, being some of the original visitations, taken by or under the authority of the St. Georges. With these also were many of Camden's books, which he had bequeathed to his successors, the future Clarenceux. These original documents were scandalously sold by Messrs. Wine [Wynne] and Gregory to Thomas Percival, Earl of Egmont, a great lover of genealogical studies, who gave for them £500: they are now possessed by that nobleman's grandson, John-James, the present Earl of Egmont.

Noble here calls the Earl of Egmont Thomas instead of John. John Percival was born in 1683, created Earl of Egmont in 1733, and died in London in 1748. John his son, the second earl, was born in 1711, succeeded in 1748, and died in 1772. John James, the third earl, was born in Pall Mall, 23 January, 1738, succeeded in 1772, and died in 1822.

Noble, writing in or before the year 1804, states, as above, that the Visitations are now in the possession of the Earl of Egmont. In his list of the Visitations only Herefordshire, Cambridgeshire, London and Lincolnshire are said to be 'probably in the Earl of Egmont's possession.' It seems likely that the list of Visitations which is printed in the Appendix at the end of his book, was added at a later date than the main text.

Moule, in his Bibliotheca Heraldica, issued in 1822, includes in the List of Visitations at the end of his book all those given by Noble, and like him omits that of Leicestershire and includes Lincolnshire. All except Rutland, Gloucestershire and Hampshire, are described as in the possession of the Earl of Egmont; and some of them, including Lincolnshire, have the addition:—"The original Visitation is in the possession of the Earl of Egmont." It may be noted that, although the date on the title-page is 1822, that on the frontispiece is June, 1820.

Moule states (with a reference to Noble's History of the College of Arms, p. 353) on p. 560, that the St. Georges' manuscripts 'are now in the library at Enmore.' Enmore Castle, co. Somerset, was built by the Earl of Egmont. This is the first mention of the place where the manuscripts were kept by the Earl of Egmont. Gatfield, in his Guide (p. 177), states that a book of Somersetshire pedigrees compiled in 1636, once in the library of John Anstis, Garter, October, 1737, was in the possession of the Earl of Egmont at St. James' Place.

All these manuscript Visitations except that of Lincolnshire 1681-1683, are now in the Library of Herald's College.

I have been thus particular to try and trace the life history of these manuscripts, because, although the lists quoted above, beginning with the one by John Anstis, Garter, all omit the Visitation of Leicestershire, which is safe with the others at Herald's College, and is now marked 'K 2,' they all include Lincolnshire which occurs, just as the other Visitations do, without any special remark, and yet it is not to be found at the Herald's College.

Dr. Marshall, using the initials G.W.M., pointed out in Notes and Queries (1870, 4th series, v, p. 487) that in the lists of Herald's Visitations, published by Sir N. H. Nicolas and Mr. Sims, 'nearly all the later and most valuable visitations in the College of Arms are for some inexplicable reason omitted. I append a list of them . . . The list includes some of the Visitations marked 'D,' and all those marked 'K,' Lincolnshire, 1681-1683, being omitted; but at that time Dr. Marshall was in doubt whether D 23, the Visitation printed in the present volume was really to be dated 1666, for he adds '(1681?)' after the date. So far as I know, this list is the first that gives the press-marks to these manuscripts. The catalogue by Sir N. H. Nicolas, was first published in a small edition, and a second edition appeared in 1825: that by Mr. Sims was first issued in 1856; and a revised edition, in 1888, in his Manual for the Genealogist, Topographer and Antiquary.

A suggested explanation of the omission of so many manuscripts may be given. The catalogues must have been based on one of the early lists made by the Heralds. The one given to Sir Henry St. George when he was made Garter King of Arms in 1703, and bearing his signature, now in my possession, is headed "A Copy of the Catalogue of all the Books now remaining in the Collidge of Arms, Anno 1703, transcribed from Mr. Le Neve's Cat." Peter le Neve died the 24th of September, 1729. In this catalogue the last volume of the series of manuscripts marked 'D,' is thus entered 'D. 14, being a great Book lyes not in this press [i.e. the 6th press, which contained D. 1 to D. 13], but in the 10th press amongst Mr. Sheldon's Books'; and not one of the Visitations with the press mark 'K.' is entered.

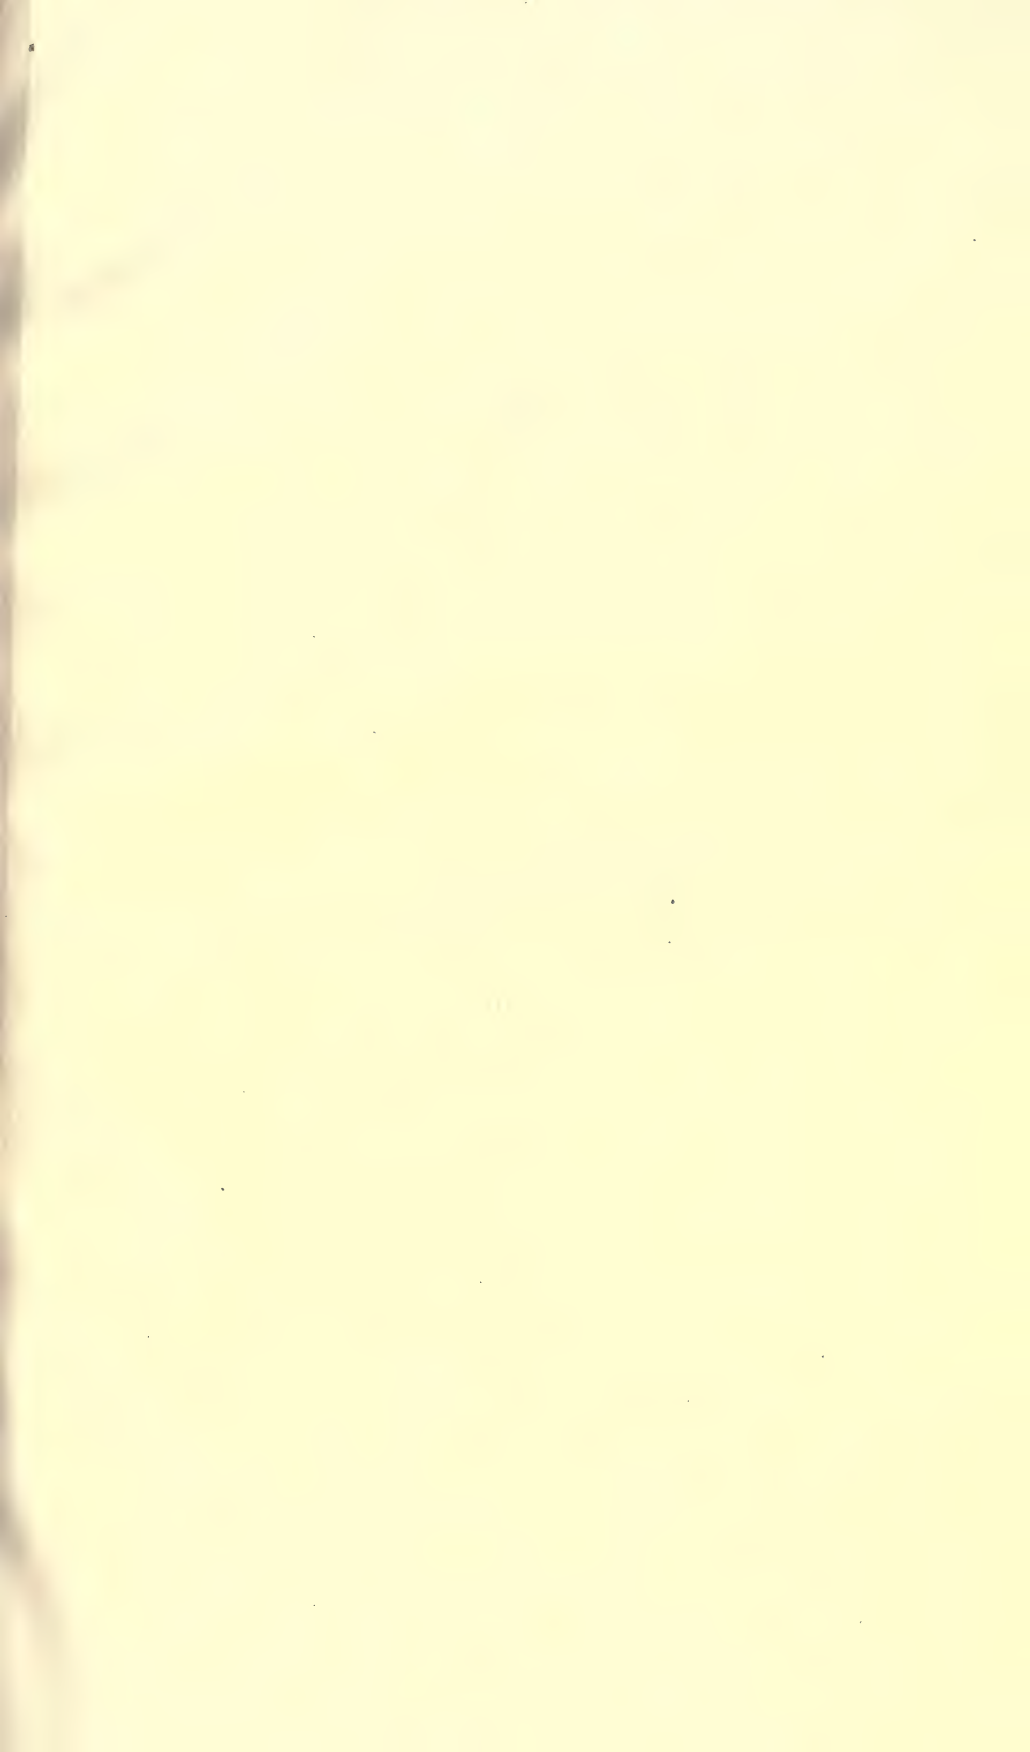

Our interest is now more particularly with the Lincolnshire Visitation. It seems to me that Dr. Marshall hardly sufficiently weighed the evidence of the probability of a Visitation of Lincolnshire having been made in 1681-83, and the existence at one time of the copy of it, when he writes as above quoted:—"I can find no trace of this Visitation, and believe both the statements to be without foundation." This of course is only an opinion. It must be remembered that John Anstis was a member of the College of Arms at the time Sir Henry St. George was Garter, and succeeded him in the same office at his death in 1715.

At the first glance it might be imagined that the explanation why the Visitation of Leicestershire was omitted by Anstis is that Lincolnshire has been wrongly inserted in its place. This seems hardly possible as it would charge Anstis with making a grave error of confusion. The Visitation of Leicestershire, 1681-1683, was, I imagine, omitted, just as when Anstis was composing the list of Bysshe's Visitations, he overlooked that of Dorset made in 1677. It must be remembered that the object of the catalogue was to make a comparison between the manuscripts in the possession of Anstis, which are always placed at the head of each county, and those to be found in other collections; also that Anstis worked independently, apparently using a catalogue similar to that made by Peter le Neve, mentioned above, as far as it served. To this he added the visitations of which he had any knowledge. Besides the series of the latest visitations, he added all those made by Bysshe except, as is mentioned above, Dorsetshire 1677. Four of these have only references to the Harleian MSS.: the others have no reference; and none of them has the press-mark 'D.', as used by the Heralds' College. It is easy to see that Anstis must have had no little difficulty in obtaining perfect information of a series of manuscripts no less in number than twenty-six.

From the above notes I think that it will be granted that it is in every way possible, and seems to be more than probable, that the Visitation of Lincolnshire, 1681-1683, was made. It still remains to be proved whether the life-history of this visitation, as well as of the others of the same series, is true, and what has become of the manuscript. No more fitting occasion could occur than the publication by the LINCOLN RECORD SOCIETY of one of the Visitations of the County, to ask all those interested to make search and try by every effort to recover the lost Visitation of 1681-1683. When found it would follow as a suitable companion to the present volume containing the Visitation made by Bysshe in the year 1666.
